“ Gary you have my condolences I lost my son and AJ was there I had no idea they were friends you did though wish you would have reached out but at these times people at a loss for words. Our dad's are friends we are friends and our kids were friends what are the odds. You lucky you have a grandchild to cherish. I love you brother I don't know what to say because time does not heal all wounds talking to people who lost kids did a little for me.\r\n
